Handwritten notes and tables on the top half of the page, including names like 'Dharma', 'Public', 'Chama', and various numerical entries.

Handwritten notes and tables on the bottom half of the page, including names like 'Chama', 'Public', 'Chama', and various numerical entries.

Handwritten notes and accounts, including entries for 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, and 21. The text is written in a cursive script, likely a historical form of English or a related language. It includes various names, dates, and numerical figures, possibly representing financial records or administrative documents. The entries are organized into columns and rows, with some sections marked by large numbers (11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21) and others by smaller numbers (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21). The handwriting is dense and somewhat difficult to decipher in many places, but the overall structure suggests a systematic record-keeping system.
