now prefer claim to the Inam are 1st, Darampura Peshayas. Arayan on the ground that he is the deceased grand father's uncle's grandson & that he performed the funeral of the deceased; 2nd One Tolasambatti Chenna Kesavayyan on the ground that he is the son of Subbarayan 2nd daughter's son of Nattam, was from whom the deceased had derived the Inam as inheritance, being the eldest daughter's son & 3rd N. 142 & their Co-sharer Raminayya who enjoys his share in other Villages & N. 5 claim the Inam as Cousins. The 1st claimant is too distant, a cousin to have any just claim whatever to the paternal estate of the deceased. The 2nd claimant's right is also inadmissible, as the property once gone in gift in one daughter's line cannot rise after the alienation of that line to another daughter. His father was besides the mortgagee of the land, and now enjoys the land on the right of mortgage. The only persons that have any plausible right are N. 142 & 5 Raminayya of the original family. In the original family there were 3 brothers, the eldest branch was allowed $\frac{2}{5}$ share, the 2nd branch $\frac{2}{5}$ share, & 3rd branch $\frac{1}{5}$ share. I would view the present case as giving an end to the 3rd branch of the original family, & adjudge the right of the lapsid share to the Cousins of that branch viz
