[illegible]

Handwritten document with multiple entries, including names, dates, and handwritten notes. The document is heavily stained and damaged, with significant portions of the original text obscured by ink blots and physical damage. The entries are organized in a structured manner, likely a ledger or record book, with columns for names, dates, and other details. The handwriting is in a cursive script, and the overall appearance is that of an old, well-used document.

Key entries and notes visible:

- Top Section: Entries with names like "Munim", "Munim", "Munim", and dates like "1881", "1882", "1883".
- Middle Section: Entries with names like "Munim", "Munim", "Munim", and dates like "1884", "1885", "1886".
- Bottom Section: Entries with names like "Munim", "Munim", "Munim", and dates like "1887", "1888", "1889".

Handwritten notes and signatures are interspersed throughout the document, including "Munim", "Munim", "Munim", and "Munim". The document is a complex record of events, likely related to a family or a specific community.

Handwritten notes at the top of the page, including names like 'Maremma', 'Pugni', 'Damas', and 'Maremma'. There are also some numbers and dates, such as '17-10' and '17-11'.

Case 128
of the Inam Commission
Depo 12302
Sheet 12 680

The Inam Commission remarks that the table of priority given in the statement does not correspond with the entries in Column 14 and 15 of the statement prepared by the Collector. The Deputy Collector states that in fact 1256 the Inam is held in the hands of one Alwarayyan but the present holding shows that at that period there was no person of that name and that he had no account was shown in fact 1256. The Inam is unable to explain in which month the Deputy Collector had made such a mistake and it appears from the statement that it was made by the Inam holder that was wrong any day.

As that referred to by the Inam Deputy Collector. Upon with regard to the entry of fact 1257 the Inam explains that the individual mentioned as son of the Inam holder is his grandson and the daughter's side. The account of that fact is erroneous the statement of that Inam but it appears that a mistake had introduced in the statement rendered to the Inam Deputy Collector in which the appal Alwarayyan was entered as son instead of as son of the father's father's son.

The girl sent in this case will have to be raised. Considering the age of the Inam and his wife it is out of question that there is any prospect of their having issue after.

Chela John - Collector

16th April 1858
Enclosure 303

James Birrell
Inam Commissioner

Alwarayyan is the grandson of the original holder in the female line and as he is the rightful owner of the Inam -

The Inam being of older date than 55 years is recommended to be confirmed to the present holder subject to quick return of Rs 100 which had been due to him.

The Inam was placed under attachment on 9th February 1858 but this case was postponed with reference to the Inam Commission's letter of 5th dated 4th June 1857.

With reference to the finding of that letter I am of opinion that the Inam could be released ahead of from attachment.
