Chelaya, granting the village of Nallarallapalli [illegible] a part of the [illegible] Ayakat of [illegible] village is no longer an Inam, being an [illegible] village from long time. ~~The village~~ In the accounts of Fusli [illegible] the village of Kavichhalhalli or Nallarallapalli ~~[illegible]~~ was entered as Sarva Inam of a very old date in the name of Upadiyaya Venkata Chelaya. ~~[illegible]~~

~~[illegible] palli [illegible] granted [illegible] Inam [illegible] Cockburn confirmed [illegible] the village [illegible]~~

From the above circumstances it appears that the village under enquiry ~~was~~ had belonged to Neranabhotla whose family became ~~extinct~~ extinct, and the Poligar then granted it ~~to [illegible] family [illegible]~~ [illegible] ago. The Sunnud of Fusli [illegible] for this village [illegible] any former grant, or [illegible] being [illegible] in lieu of any resumed grant. The Dasadar says he is unable [illegible] the documents [illegible] in Fusli [illegible], whose copies, (by the Sunnud of Fusli [illegible] and the Sunnud of Salivahana 1687) are preserved in the Records. Mr Cockburn confirmed it as an old Inam, ~~[illegible]~~ The [illegible] of this village and Nallarallapalli both as Sarva Inams in the accounts of Fusli [illegible] is [illegible] sufficient [illegible] to believe that they were excluded from the [illegible] of [illegible]. Under this state of things, it should be considered how far the Poligar was right in [illegible] the [illegible], when it ought to have reverted to Govt. Tho' the grant took place so early as Fusli 1216, the [illegible] after he had been [illegible] with Poligars, [illegible] all [illegible] of interfering with [illegible] ~~[illegible]~~ [illegible] cut off. ~~[illegible]~~ It is too late, however, to think of cancelling the grant, the present family having had the enjoyment of upwards of 50 years. It is the Inamdar's family who [illegible] of Nallarallapalli [illegible], and [illegible] -[illegible]. [illegible] the village [illegible] Mr Cockburn [illegible] Fusli 1232 or [illegible]
