Vaiyalur Chattram known as Vilakollai Chavadi or Chattram Kalle Sinnap [illegible] Chitambara Pillai ~~[illegible]~~ son of the founder
In the Inam Jamabandi Account of 1231, no extent of land is mentioned as is not unfrequently the case with Top Maniems, but the number of trees alone is recorded at 200. On complaint that a larger number of trees than these is being enjoyed rent free & that ~~additional~~ the extent of land has also been enlarged by an encroachment, the Collector directed not only the ~~[illegible]~~ resumption of the addl. land, but also that the additional trees be charged with their proper tax in 1859. Against the taxing of the additional trees, the Chattram owner remonstrates. In the Collector's Inked, it is admitted that ~~[illegible]~~ all the trees situated on Acres 7-1/2 are old & such as must have been originally planted, but as the Inam Jamabandi of 1231 only mentioned 200 trees the rest was charged with full tree tax. I think that [illegible] seeing that the trees are admitted to be old ones. The amount of [illegible] ~~[illegible]~~ however involves inconsiderable about 10 Rs of tree tax) & I ~~[illegible]~~ beg to submit for consideration × whether the Collector's order is to stand good. It seems rather unfair that additional trees planted & grown on the same extent should be charged. 31st Octr 1861. Madasami Pillai Dy Coll

Decision of Com'r 3 Cont'd
×× in excess of the orig'l number of 200 trees. Such a course would involve an inconsistency & ought I think be rectified ~~with reference~~ the Collr ~~[illegible]~~ being requested to take the subject into his consideration if the charge on acct of the excess in the number of trees still continues.
