Grandson – 3 sons – took

The correctness of the genealogy given by the incumbent is somewhat questioned by the village people who have been long quarrelling with the Inamdar on some ground or other – but ~~the [illegible]~~ perfect accuracy is ~~not~~ hardly material in this case as the grant is of a service character & that service is duly performed by the incumbent who has been long in possession – The statement of the villagers is that he is the son by another ~~husband~~ wife of the ~~daughter of~~ husband of the daughter of the grantee which daughter succeeded her father but died it is said without any issue of her own – it is therefore suggested by the village people that the daughter having died without issue – her husband's second wife's son is no heir of her – but supposing the village assertion of ~~the~~ an earlier relationship were true, which is denied by the Inamdar I submit it is quite immaterial to the purpose in ~~[illegible]~~ the matter of an Inam of this kind – to be continued therefore as long as the ceremonies in honor of the deceased Nabob of the Carnatic are duly performed – It is perhaps necessary to observe that similar grants have been made and are enjoyed at other places where the Nabob's remains were halted (in the Dt of Chengalpat) where besides the Parwana of the deceased Nabob's son the English Parwana signed by Lord Clive's Govt contemporary with that personage were produced to me ~~[illegible]~~ by the Inamdars concerned A similar ~~[illegible]~~ English Parwana I expected to be produced here – but none ~~it~~ has ~~not~~ been shown, probably because the Carnatic was then ~~still~~ in the hands of the Nabob & not ceded to the British Govt while the Jagir (Chengalpat) was ~~[illegible]~~ at that time already a Company's possession –

The original grant in this village was 20 Kanis of which ~~[illegible]~~ 3 Kodi having been taken up by the Tank road, an equivalent has been recently granted under orders of Govt in the village of Paisao, to the register of which reference is requested –
