 To this add just the words

Cathartes B. & C. are both present in the same place. I have seen the same. Cathartes B. is much larger than Cathartes C. and is much more common.

In the same month and year, I purchased a parcel of land situated on the Hudson river, the same where these notes were discovered.
It lies on my own right bank of the River of the Cape, and is about six miles from the station of the Hudson River R.R. It is now able to grow the same grain as the country, and is fertile as the Cape of the Hudson. It is situated
