Nos. 7-8 & 11 in vol 15 are said to have been tenants of the Inamdars in the extents specified against them, & the a 22-6 are common to the others. Nos. 1 & 2 are respectively [illegible] of No. 10 in the Cowle [illegible] they enjoy in equal shares the extents under those Nos. or a 5-9½ out of the a 22-6 above alluded to. Nos. 3, 4-5, 6 & 7 are [illegible] of Nos. 10, 6, 1, 3 & 9 [illegible] enjoy the extents under those Nos. with their shares of the Samudayam. The Inamdar No. 6 enjoys also the extent in the name of No. 5 Ganapati his relation who is said to have lived on his land. No. 8 enjoys the extent in the name of her husband No. 4 with his share of the a 22-6.

This Inam village, consisting of only houses and backyards, is not entd. in any of the accts. prior to F 1238. The [illegible] of its being the site of houses may have been the reason of its omission in the accts. Whether this was measured in F 1226 or not is not known, as no acct. is available for that Fasli. In the Paimash Chitta of F 1238 the former Dittam is given as V a 13-18¾. When this was taken is not known. From an inscription on a piece of granite in the possession of the Inamdars, this Inam appears to have been granted as Maniam to certain "Pattakkarsmen" who bear the vehicles of the Swami on particular festival days, by Pungam Nayakkar (when this man was is not stated) in the year Vicrama (which is not specified). To this day the holders of the Inam continue to render the service required ~ in the Pagoda of Madhyarjunam Mahálingaswámi.

As the Inam thus appears to be valid, and to have been granted for a particular service which is still rendered, it is proposed to be confirmed and continued rent free on [illegible].

The rate of asst. adopted is the average garden rate of the adjoining village of Ararattamankatta or Rs 23-5-4 per [illegible]
