The Fysal Olungu of F 1213, having been lost, a special survey was made under the supervision of Govt Officers, and [illegible] as per F 1226, according to which this Register has been prepd. The entire Village, is within the recognised boundaries specified in the Olungu of 1226 — The excess is the aggregate of the differences on the several Fields between the original measurement of F 1226 and the subsequent measurements — and not the result of any Encroachment as is admitted by the Zamindar the only party that can complain of it — The area of the Village being the same, though differently calculated, the Excess is allowed — So also the Excess in minor inams — which is not claimed either by the Zamn or the Aggraharamdars ~~Pagoda Managers~~ as obtained by any Encroachment — It is in fact part of the original Inam —

It appears from the Accounts of the permanent settlement of the Estate that the Jodi upon this Village is payable to the Pagoda, and that in consequence it was not added to the assets of the Estate, because it was not an item of Revenue due to it —

The recognised Boundaries of the Village as specified in the Account of F 1226 —

Eastern — Punga tree on the ~~Field~~ west Bank of "Palambady" Iyan Village

Southern — Kattaya Alamaram or Banian tree

Western — Limits of Adakkampatty Iyan Village

Northern — Vaimanamudra Boundary stone of Marangápuri —

1-1-1

More than half of the lands of this Village Dry and wet ~~waste~~ remain waste — being irreclaimable & occupied by rocky soil ~~&c~~ — Besides, the wet cultivation has suffered very much since these 15 years in consequence of the removal (under a Court decree in a suit between the Zamindar and the Aggraharamdars) of a Dam across the Vellar, by which means they have been using to divert the body of the water into their Tank — and the consequent diminution of its supply — These are accounts of cultivation taken by Zamindar for the Village for 3 years which give the Income as follows
