Note.

This case seems to call for [illegible] investigation. Ayyavayyangár of Dévangudi filed a statement as now settled, but a counter statement has been filed this day by one Gópálayengár in the names of Ellingarama ayyangar, Strinivasa Ayyangár and Áramadu Ayyangár. This person says that he knows nothing of Jávaki annual & Ayyavayyangár. But he appears at the last moment, so that no immediate enquiry can be held by me. Ayyavayyangár is at a distance from Aramale. I therefore referred the case to the Tahsildar to report upon the subject. But the result of his report on the matter, I beg the decision may be kept on abeyance.

Signed A. Narayana Rau, 23-6-16 Dy. Collector

Tahsildar's Anzi 18 August 1916 No 325

Pakkiri Ayyavayyangár not in possession and no proof of ever having been so. Cannot decide in his favor without document or trustworthy evidence. Enjoyment is in the hands of Inamdar Chief. But here again the Inamdar's evidence is confected.

Referred to Collector for decision.

3. There is no proof that Ayavayyan was ever in possession of the Inam.—

4. Rather than confirm the Inam the Inamdar deems it, I would confirm it to him as he has been doing undisturbed in possession for the last 10 or 12 years, & Ayavayyangar can establish his right in a Court of Law.—

5. If the proposal is accepted, the Tahsildar should be consulted.

Some time past,

See Collector's Letter, dated 6th April 1870 herein.—

From the enquiry held by the Collector, it appears that Ayavayyangar is the grandson of the late Sri Venkatachary through whom Gopalayyangar claims the Inam.—

2 Gopalayyangar is in possession & has been so for some time past, but Ayavayyangar states that the possession is based on some private arrangement entered into by his father with Anantachary the undertook to pay him annually Rs 10-0-0. There is no proof however that there was ever such an arrangement.

Dd Collector's letter
6th April 1870 No 19.

Arunachalam is now dead, & the Sworn is now in possession of the following persons —

1	Gopalasamy ayangar	adopted son of Arunachalam
2	Ranjasami ayangar	brother by same
3	Sreenivasa ayangar	do
4	Arunachala ayangar	do
5	Seshammal	daughter

It is clear that possession has been with the parties for some time past. —

2. There is no proof whatever that Ayavayangar ever rejected the Sworn. —

3. The general tide however has concurred the existing belief that Arunachalam was at the finding of the original suit, & that Ayavayangar is. — The accounts go to show that Arunachalam was at the finding but they do not show that Ayavayangar is. —

4. Ayavayangar states that Arunachalam obtained possession by a private arrangement with his father agreeing to pay him Rs 10-6- annually.
There is however no proof to this effect. —

5. The Collector is disposed to agree with his father that Ayavayangar & not Arunachalam is the original finding of the original suit. —

6. I think it is safe to confirm the Sworn to the parties in possession & thus according confirmation to Gopalasamy ayangar & referring Ayavayangar to Civil Courts. — Re see 1872 the same matter Case — Submitted pro forma. —
