I am therefore disposed to believe that the partial part of the excess must be owing to partial encroachment. But as it is the meeting place of 100 village of different estates, it is very possible that there was encroachment on Metlagudi and for the same reason as has been recorded in the register of the present case, I would treat 1/2 of the excess as inam and charge the remaining 1/2 with full abatement.

Could have ever defeated a Survey to such an extent. The enormity of the encroachment must point out the fact of an encroachment. The remainder of this village are also the Mahajan's possessions of the adjoining Agan village of Hekupatti, which forms the northern limit of this inam village. The Revenue Inspector states, that the encroachment is within the usual bounds. The Agankat boundary flows Hekupatti on one side and the village of the Rajput of Hekupatti on the other's sides. It is true that Hekupatti is described to be the northern boundary and Hekupatti led to the north, but what part of Hekupatti was taken as the northern boundary is not made out. The more genuine and encroachment, the more direct north will Hekupatti stand. The Hekupatti Agankat is not forthcoming, but the Hekupatti Karama is stated that a jungle stream is running between the two limits. If it was so, the Survey of Chinnadapatti would have mentioned that as a natural limit but it does not. It found that the demarcation officers have fixed the boundary stone of Hekupatti to the south of the jungle stream. In measuring certain lands in Chinnadapatti the limits are described as follows: to the south of Hekupatti and to the west of the Tandi Karama. The mountain or wall is now traceable as Tandi Karama, there are several old wadis in the Hekupatti side at a distance of 100 yards from the jungle stream. The demarcation was not fixed, or a Survey of the lands of the inam village which was a very necessary step for seeing that Hekupatti was not encroached upon. Besides the improbability of such a margin of error in a Survey the influence and interest which the Mahajan took in both these villages, warrants a presumption of encroachment. I would therefore charge the encroachment but I cannot recommend the full charge, on the whole, as for it is not a case of doubtful proof. I therefore recommend that 1/3 of the encroachment may be included as part of the inam, and that the remaining 2/3 charged with full abatement and incorporated with the jodi.

The Inam to be confirmed Jodi 10-9-8
 Jodi Rent 1/3 = 15-0-0
 Jodi Rent 2/3 = 26-0-0
 Add full abatement on 1/3 of the encroachment 6-0-0
 Total 47-0-0
 Compulsory.

The Jodi Rent value is taken on the total of the original Agankat value + 1/3 of the encroachment from which Jodi has been deducted.
