The first appointment of Commissioned Officers to the department will be made by His Excellency the Viceroy, all proposals for their subsequent promotion, transfer and leave, being submitted by the Director-General for the orders of the Government of India. The manufacturing establishments will remain under the superintendence of the Inspectors-General of Ordnance, but the general direction as to the nature and amount of work to be undertaken annually in each factory will rest with the Director-General. The Director-General will be responsible for the supply and distribution of ordnance stores, and for the preparation and submission of the annual estimates, as well as of the annual indents for stores procured from England.

3. The consolidated Ordnance Department for all India will for the present be divided into three circles of superintendence and supply,—Bengal, Madras, Bombay,—each under the charge of an Inspector-General of Ordnance, who will be allowed an assistant taken from the establishment of Commissaries, but not seconded. DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Simla, the 19th September 1884.

No. 3570.—With the approval of the Secretary of State for India, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to determine, in supersession of the Resolutions No. 684, dated 31st January 1878, and No. 2811, dated 3rd September 1881, that the selection of officers for employment in the Assay Department shall be made in the following manner:—

I.—As directed in Resolution No. 124, dated 12th May 1876, commissioned officers only shall, as a general rule, be appointed substantively to the Assay Department.

II.—No officer shall be appointed substantively to the Assay Department without producing the following four certificates after practical examination:—

(1) Of attendance at a three-months' practical course of Inorganic Chemistry (qualitative only) at the Normal School of Science, London.

(2) Of attendance at a three-months' practical course of Metallurgy at the Royal School of Mines, especially with reference to the assaying of gold and silver and their alloys.

(3) Of attendance for a month at the Assay Laboratory of the Royal Mint, London, permission to attend the Mint being previously obtained from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

The above courses not to be taken out simultaneously, but to occupy seven months in all.

(4) A certificate from the Head Assayer of the Royal Mint as to the candidate's ability to assay the precious metals, to be tested by practical examination.

III.—The certificates, when obtained, should be forwarded by the officer to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, who will then inform the Government of India whether the officer is pro tanto qualified for the Assay Department, subject to completion of his qualification by attendance at the Assay Office Laboratory at Calcutta or Bombay for a certain probationary period.

IV.—Whenever a want of candidates eligible for admission to the Assay Department is foreseen, the Government may permit a selected officer to attend at the Laboratory of the Assay Master at Bombay or Calcutta for a period not exceeding six months in order to prepare himself for a prescribed examination. During this period of probation, the full salary of the office he may happen to hold at the time, subject to a minimum of Rs. 450 a month, and in addition the presidency house-rent of his rank, will be granted to him. At the expiry of the term of probation, the probationer will be examined by the Assay Master of the Mint to which he is attached, the examination being framed so as to test the practical familiarity of the probationer with the ordinary work of an Indian Assay Laboratory, and with the duties expected of an Assay Officer attached to a Mint, and his knowledge generally of the methods of assaying both gold and silver, and particularly of the method of assaying silver which is peculiar to the Indian Mints. Certain alloys should be given to the probationer, and a report on their fineness required according to such methods of assay as may be stipulated at the discretion of the Assay Master; and it must be a condition that the whole of the manipulating details shall be conducted by the probationer with his own hands. The ability of the probationer to prepare pure gold and silver for assay check purposes should also be carefully ascertained. An officer who has so passed the prescribed local examination only may, at the discretion of the Government of India, be employed temporarily in the Assay Department. The period of such employment, however, is not to exceed twelve months at one time, unless under very special circumstances, and with the sanction of the Secretary of State.

V.—The Governor-General in Council desires it to be understood that the mere successful result of the examination thus prescribed, or of any other, will not entitle the probationer to appointment to the Assay Department. The Assay Master under whom he is employed should report confidentially to Government his opinion as to the aptitude and general (apart from mere technical) fitness of the probationer for the position of an Assay Officer. A similar report will be required also in the case of officers who have obtained the certificates referred to in Clauses II and III.
