* * *

Adjutant General's Office, Simla, 8th February 1895.

125. The Commander-in-Chief wishes to impress on soldiers that the frequent occurrence of fatal and serious injuries, from the careless way in which soldiers out shooting have used their guns, makes it a matter for grave consideration whether it is in accordance with the safety of the public to continue the indulgence of shooting passes to soldiers, Sir George White is very unwilling to deprive the men of this much-valued privilege, and he calls upon them to support him by exercising the greatest care themselves and impressing on their comrades the necessity of constant precaution and watchfulness against accidents by the careless handling of loaded arms, or by firing in neighbourhoods where people are about.

This matter now rests with the men of the British army in India. Frequent loss of life and serious injuries to the natives of the country cannot, and will not, be passed by without taking every means to prevent it, even to the stopping of shooting altogether. If such a course is forced on the Commander-in-Chief the men will only have themselves, as a body, to blame for it.

The following rules will be added to all copies of paragraph 749, Army Regulations, India, Volume II :—

23. Officers Commanding Corps will be held responsible that these orders have been read and explained to non-commissioned officers and men before they are allowed passes to shoot.

24. A form of shooting pass, with these rules clearly printed on the back, will be kept in every British Corps, and no other will be issued.

25. Non-commissioned officers and men will always be in personal possession of these passes when out shooting, and will give them up on their return to barracks.

This order and the Rules relating to the grant of shooting passes to British soldiers will be read three times to each Corps on parade, and also yearly during the first week in October.

The Government of India have been pleased to sanction free passages, under the regulations marginally quoted,* to Majors of the British Service when proceeding to attend examinations for promotion to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in accordance with War Office, Army Orders, Nos. 185 of 1893, 34 and 39 of 1894, also to officers proceeding to out-stations to serve as Members of Boards of these examinations.

* Paragraph 228 (I) and (IV), Army Regulations, India, Volume X, Part I.
Paragraph 519 (I) and (VI), Army Regulations, India, Volume X, Part II.

2. Majors and Senior Captains proceeding for attachment to other arms than their own for preparation for examination will also be granted free passages on one occasion and only then if such attachment resulted in a favorable report, except in cases where attendance was interrupted by illness.

3. Majors will, as a rule, be examined during, or at the termination of, the period for which they are attached.

4. In selecting the stations at which Boards of Examination are to be held General Officers Commanding District should consider economy of expenditure in travelling expenses.

No. 93.—The Commander-in-Chief is pleased to make the following appointment:—
