"As you know, I think, the Raja of Pudukkóttai has also asked for an interview and His "Excellency is writing to him suggesting that the Raja should pay his Darbar visit at 12 noon "on Saturday the 15th (when His Excellency would return it at 3 P.M. the same day) and "should have a private interview at 11 A.M. on Monday."

Under Secretary—

No official intimation has been received regarding the Pudukkóttai Raja's visit at Madras. It is not known whether the arrival is to be public. For the purpose of drawing up the ceremonial programmes for the exchange of Darbar visits it is necessary to ascertain where the Raja is going to reside. If the arrival is to be public, a fortnight's notice is required. If the arrival is private but if a salute is required one week's notice is necessary. Should it however be decided that these rules might be waived, the Political Agent may be asked to wire the hour and date of the Raja's arrival at Madras, also the Raja's residence. In any case information regarding the residence is necessary.

Contribution by Native States towards capital expenditure of State Railways.

Informing the Resident in Travancore and Cochin and the Political Agents for Pudukkóttai, Banganapalle and Sandúr that the Secretary of State has approved the proposals of the Government of India to allow Native Darbars to contribute, subject to certain conditions, towards the capital expenditure of State Railways constructed within or adjacent to their territories.

GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.

Read—the following paper :—

Despatch—from the Government of India, Finance Department (Accounts and Finance—Railways).
To—His Majesty's Secretary of State for India.
Dated—Simla, the 4th July 1907.
No.—240.

We have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your Despatch No. 150 (Financial), dated the 7th December 1906, according sanction to our proposal to allow Native States to contribute, subject to certain conditions, towards the capital expenditure of State Railways constructed within their territorial limits.

2. As desired by you, the terms which will govern each case will be fully explained to the Native State before any contribution is accepted from it; and it will also be made clear that the net earnings or losses, which are to be distributed between the Government of India and the Darbar in proportion to the capital contributed by each, will be calculated by deducting from the gross receipts not only ordinary working expenses, but also any payments made to working companies. We may in this connection mention that in addition to the terms stated in our Despatch of the 28th June 1906, we have decided to impose the following conditions :—

(1) the investment made by the Native State shall ordinarily be regarded as a permanent one, and the Darbar shall not be allowed to part with its interest in the line or with any portion of its interest except to the Government of India ;

(2) the Government of India shall be under no obligation whatever to purchase the Native State's interest in the line at any time. If the Darbar wishes to sell, and the Government of India agree to buy, the price paid shall be 25 times the average net annual profits received by the Darbar during the three preceding years for which the accounts have been made up.

These conditions do not require any separate justification; but we may explain that we have intentionally omitted any provision for the compulsory purchase of the Native State's interest in the line. We believe that such a power would be rarely exercised and that its reservation might suggest suspicion as to our intentions.

3. We have also accepted the suggestion made in paragraph 3 of your Despatch and have opened a new sub-head in our accounts to record the payment of surplus profits to companies and the future payments of net earnings to Native States. We do not, however, propose to open a corresponding receipt sub-head at present, as the necessity for it will not arise unless and until the working expenses of a line exceed the actual gross receipts.

4. Since we asked for your approval to the acceptance from Native States of contributions of capital for the construction of State Railways within their own boundaries, we have been urged to consider a further development of the principle. Several Darbars have applied to us for permission to contribute to the cost of lines in which they are interested, but which do not actually traverse their territories. If contributions in such circumstances will enable us to make more rapid progress than would otherwise be possible with the construction of lines which will directly benefit the Native States concerned, we do not think that we should be justified in refusing their assistance unconditionally. Moreover, the contributions offered to us may frequently be drawn from hoards which it may be desirable in the interests of the Native States themselves to spend. We are of opinion therefore that the investments of the funds of Native States in lines outside their territorial limits, on the basis of a proportionate share of profits, may reasonably be encouraged, subject to certain clear limitations.

5. One of the most obvious of these limitations is that the line to which the Darbar proposes to contribute should adjoin its territories and be likely to assist in their development; there would be no advantage in allowing a Native State to share in the profits of our railway enterprise in a distant part of India. Another limitation on which we would lay considerable stress is that the funds offered as contributions to railway capital should not be raised by borrowing. To permit a Native State to issue a loan for railway construction would not necessarily increase the total volume of loan funds available for such construction. There would be no reasonable ground for objecting to such a course when the railway lies within the Darbar's own territory; but we do not think we ought to allow contributions of this nature in the case of railways outside its territorial limits, and thus to surrender to the Darbar a share of the profits which would otherwise have accrued to us. In our opinion, it is only where a Native State possesses an accumulation of cash and securities beyond a reasonable working balance and a provision for famine expenditure, that the permission to provide funds for railway construction outside its territories should be given.

6. When therefore application is made by Native States for permission to contribute towards the capital expenditure on State Railways situated outside their territorial limits, we propose to consider each such application on its merits, and to grant the necessary permission on the following terms:—

(1) that the Darbar is prepared to provide the funds from surplus cash or securities in its possession, after setting apart a sufficient reserve to meet probable expenditure in the event of famine; but not from loan funds, whether the latter are provided by its subjects or not;

(2) that the line is adjacent to and likely to benefit the Native State;

(3) that the amount of the contribution will be determined by the Government of India on an estimate of the extent of the Darbar's interest in the railway; and

(4) that when the railway lies wholly or in part within the territory of another Native State, that State should first be given a reasonable opportunity of contributing to its cost to the extent determined in (3) above.

Where such permission is granted, the terms regarding distribution of profits, the management of the line and the transfer or purchase of the Darbar's interest in the line will be the same as those which it has been decided to impose in the case of lines situated within the territorial limits of the Native State.

7. As we have already mentioned, we have received applications from Native States for permission to contribute towards the cost of State Railways outside their territories; and we trust that we have your approval in dealing with them on the principles described above. The effect of all such contributions on the railway programme will be regulated in the manner indicated in paragraph 2 of your Despatch of the 7th December 1906.

Despatch—from His Majesty's Secretary of State for India.
To—His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor-General of India in Council.
Dated—India Office, London, the 4th October 1907.
No.—139, Financial.

In your letter in the Finance Department, No. 240 of 4th July 1907, you inform me that you have decided to impose certain additional conditions on the contribution of funds by Native States for the construction of railways within their territorial limits, viz., (1) that the investment made by the Native State shall ordinarily be regarded as a permanent one, and the Darbar shall not be allowed to part with its interest in the line or with any portion of its interest except to the Government of India; (2) that the Government of India shall be under no obligation to purchase the Native State's interest in the line at any time; that if the Darbar wishes to sell and the Government of India agree to buy, the price shall be 25 times the average net annual profits received by the Darbar during the three preceding years for which the accounts have been made up.

2. You are also in favour of encouraging Native States to invest funds on a profit-sharing basis in lines outside their own territorial limits. The policy is one which appears to me to be desirable on financial grounds, and in the interests of the development of the country.

3. You propose that each application from a Native State to contribute to the capital expenditure of a line outside its territory shall be considered on its merits, and that permission to contribute, if granted, shall be subject to the following conditions:—

(1) that the Darbar is prepared to provide the funds from surplus cash or securities in its possession, after setting apart a sufficient reserve to meet probable expenditure in the event of famine; but not from loan funds, whether provided by its subjects or not;

(2) that the line is adjacent to and likely to benefit the Native State;

(3) that the amount of the contribution will be determined by the Government of India on an estimate of the Darbar's interest in the railway; and

(4) that when the railway lies wholly or in part within the territory of another Native State, that State shall be given a reasonable opportunity of contributing to its cost to the extent determined under condition (3).

4. You further propose that the terms regarding distribution of profits, the management of the line, and the transfer or purchase of the Darbar's interest in it shall be the same as those to be applied to lines situated within the limits of the Native State.

5. Your proposals have my approval.

No. 274 I.B.

A copy of each of the foregoing despatches is forwarded to the Chief Secretary to the Government of Fort St. George, for information and guidance.

2. The orders should not be communicated to the Darbars of Native States in Madras.

This Government subsequently suggested to the Ceylon Government that as such charges were at present incurred not only in the Tanjore but also in the Madura and Trichinopoly districts, and as transfers of boys from one district to another were not unknown, it would be a better arrangement to fix a provincial maximum of Rs. 1,500. Abstract.—Recording letter from the Government of India, Home department (Judicial), No. 631, dated 10th May 1907, forwarding a copy of a despatch from the Secretary of State drawing attention to section 7, sub-section (c) of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, which provides for the taking of depositions by judges or magistrates in British possessions regarding injuries received by masters of ships, seamen or apprentices.

Endorsement, No. 1368-1, Political, dated 3rd September 1907.

Communicated to the Resident in Travancore and Cochin with the request that the Government may be informed at an early date whether in his opinion it is necessary to appoint officers at the ports in Travancore and Cochin, where British ships call, to take down depositions for transmission to the Board of Trade and to furnish Government with a list of persons who might be empowered to take down such depositions.

Letter—from R. C. C. Carr, Esq., I.C.S., Acting Resident in Travancore and Cochin.
To—the Chief Secretary to Government.
Dated—Trichur, the 11th September 1907.
No.—Dis. 429.

With reference to Mr. Under Secretary Galletti's Endorsement, No. 1368-1, dated 3rd instant, I have the honour to report that in my opinion it is desirable to appoint officers at the ports in Travancore and Cochin, where British ships call, to take depositions under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906.

2. In Cochin, the only such port is Mallipuram or Native Cochin some 4 miles north of British Cochin. The Port officer of British Cochin, who is also the Master Attendant ex-officio of Mallipuram and is a Justice of the Peace, might be empowered to record the required depositions.

3. In Travancore there are three such ports :—

(i) Alleppey.
(ii) Quilon.
(iii) Colachel.

A fourth port has been opened near Cape Comorin, but I believe that very little business is done there. I consider that the Port officer at each port might, with the Darbar's permission, be empowered to record depositions. There is a Chief Port officer for the State and a Port officer for each of ports (i), (ii) and (iii). These Port officers are also usually magistrates.

IV

Letter—from the Hon'ble Mr. H. Bradley, c.s.i., I.C.S., Acting Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras.
To—Sir L. W. Dane, k.c.i.e., c.s.i., Secretary to the Government of Inda in the Foreign department.
Dated—the 5th December 1907.
No.—Ref. 1368–3.

I am directed to address you on the question whether arrangements should be made for taking down, at ports in Native States, depositions of masters of ships, seamen and apprentices under the provisions of section 7 (c) of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906 (6 Edw. 7, Ch. 58).

2. A copy of the Act has been forwarded to the Government of Madras by the Government of India in the Home department with the request that such action as may be necessary may be taken for the recording of depositions in accordance with the law by judges or magistrates in British possessions; and the question has arisen whether arrangements should be made for the taking down of depositions at the ports of Travancore and Cochin. The late Acting Advocate-General, Madras, who was consulted in the matter and a copy of whose opinion is enclosed, holds that as Indian Native States are foreign countries for purposes of municipal law, the only possible arrangement for recording depositions in Native States ports is to appoint Consular officers at such ports.

3. The Resident in Travancore and Cochin considers that it is desirable to appoint officers for the purpose at the ports in Travancore and Cochin at which British ships call; and has recommended that the Port officers at the Travancore ports of Alleppey, Quilon and Colachel may, with the Darbar's permission, be empowered to take down depositions. The Port officers are usually also magistrates. There are several Justices of the Peace in Travancore; but these officers have their head-quarters away from the ports. The only native port in Cochin at which British ships call is Mallipuram distant some 4 miles only from the British port of Cochin; but as the British Port officer of Cochin is ex-officio Master Attendant of Mallipuram and is a Justice of the Peace, it does not appear to be necessary specially to empower an officer at Mallipuram to take down depositions.

4. If the Government of India consider that the Port officers of the Travancore ports of Alleppey, Quilon and Colachel should be appointed Consular officers for recording depositions under the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Governor in Council will move the Travancore Darbar to give permission for the services of the officers mentioned to be utilized as proposed.

To—the Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras.
Dated—Fort William, the 30th January 1908.
No.—490-I.A.

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1368–3, dated the 5th December 1907, inquiring whether arrangements should be made for taking down, at ports in Native States, depositions of masters of ships, seamen and apprentices under the provisions of section 7 (1) (c) of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, and whether the Port officers of the Travancore ports of Alleppey, Quilon and Colachel should be appointed Consular officers for the purpose.

2. In reply, I am to say that there are objections to appointing Consular officers in Native States and that no further action need be taken in regard to the ports in question.

Order—No. 72, Political, dated 15th February 1908.

With reference to his letter, Dis. No. 429, dated the 11th September 1907, the Resident in Travancore and Cochin will be informed that, the Government of India having decided that it is unnecessary to make arrangements at the ports of Alleppey, Quilon and Colachel for taking down depositions of masters of ships, seamen and apprentices under the provisions of section 7 (1) (c) of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, no action will be taken in the matter.

From the Marine Department No. 290, dated 18*th July* 1907.

The Foreign Department have not asked us to move Darbars to agree to their Judges and Magistrates taking down depositions at Native States' Ports. The orders only say "British possessions." There would be no object in sending the Government Order to the Resident, as Marine have asked Political to do, unless he is at the same time told to communicate it to Darbars with the request that their officers too should take down depositions and send them to the Board of Trade.

Submitted that the Home Department may be consulted on the point. Draft submitted.

Is a Native State (1) a British possession or (2) a foreign country for the purpose of the Merchant Shipping Act? Please put up that Act * and the Interpretation Act. † If (1) is not the Resident a Justice of the Peace, or could not any Justice of the Peace in the States take the deposition? If (2) is the Resident in the position of a Consular officer?

(2) India Act, V of 1883.

† (1) 52 and 53 Vict., Cap. 63 (1889).

A.G.—12–8–07.

The Act in question is the English Act of 1894: See section 7 of the Act in the current file.

A.G.

The India Merchant Shipping Act V of 1883 extends to the whole of British India. British India as defined in the General Clauses Act, X of 1897, 3 (7), and the Interpretation Act, ‡ 1889, does not include Native States. Native State Ports are therefore, not British Indian Ports.

‡ 52 and 53 Vic., Cap. 63.

But "India" as defined does; though not French and Portuguese possessions.

A.G.—22–8–07.

Thus, the first schedule to the Indian Ports Act, X of 1899, does not include ports in Native States.

This differentiation is further emphasised by the fact that it was found necessary when arranging for uniformity in tariff in Native States ports and British Indian ports, to declare by notification that the ports of Travancore, Cochin, Baroda, Bhavnagar and Cambay, are British Indian ports for the purposes of the Sea Customs Act VIII of 1878, and for that object alone—see note to section 3 (e) of the Act.

2. The Resident in Travancore and Cochin and his Assistant are ex-officio Justices of the Peace. But their head-quarters are 40 miles distant from Quilon and about 80 miles away from Allepy—the two principal Travancore ports—and communication is slow. As regards the other Justices of the Peace in Travancore, one is on the hills at Devikulam, five at Trivandrum and one at Quilon; but this latter being the Conservator of Forests is probably oftener away from than at his head-quarters at Quilon. But in any case these latter Justices of the Peace (i.e., except the Resident and his Assistant) exercise their jurisdiction in virtue of the fact that they are Magistrates of the Travancore Darbar, in other words, the jurisdiction they exercise is that of the Travancore Darbar —they are Travancore Magistrates and we thus come back to the question whether the assent of the Darbars should not be obtained to their Magistrates taking down depositions and sending them to the Board of Trade.

D on margin above : As office understands it, the extra-territorial jurisdiction of the King cannot and does not completely overlap the jurisdiction of another Sovereign Power or even a Native Chief in respect of the territory over which such Sovereign or Chief has jurisdiction. A partial overlapping there may be and is in most States where lower types of Government or civilization prevail. The jurisdiction thus assumed or conceded is confined to particular classes of persons or cases. See Ilbert, pages 344, 359, 372, 392 and 398. Thus, under the Order in Council, 1902, the Governor-General in Council has jurisdiction in Native States over British subjects, European or Native Indian, Government servants and sepoys, Foreigner Europeans, the property of British subjects, etc. Jurisdiction of this nature (personal) extends throughout India, Native States included ; and it is only jurisdiction of this kind that appears to be in question in the present case. So far as the King's " personal " jurisdiction was said to be limited to particular areas in India, the statement made by office supra is incorrect.

Chief Secretary—

Please see section 7 (1) (c) of the English Act in the current file. The question is : who is to take a deposition if an injured sailor is left behind in a Native State port ? Please see also section 737 English Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, and the Indian Foreign Jurisdiction Order in Council, article 4 (b).

If it is thought worth while to pursue the matter, the Resident may be asked whether any appointments need be made, and if he thinks they should, to suggest names. The question could then be referred to India.

A.G.—29-8-07.

His Excellency the Governor—

I hardly think we need pursue this matter any further. The Foreign office has given no instructions, and the number of cases in which men injured on British ships are landed and left behind in the ports of Native Cochin and Travancore must be exceedingly small. I therefore think that it is unnecessary to appoint officers under section 737 of the Merchant Shipping Act, or under any other Act or notification to take depositories under section 7 (1) (c) of the Workmen's Compensation Act.

H. Bradley—30-8-07.

I think that the question may just as well be settled. We may ask the Resident for names and then address India.

Advocate-General's Office.

Opinion.

The question raised is whether in view of the letter from the Government of India, Marine department, No. 631, dated 10th May 1907, forwarding for such action as may be necessary copy of a Despatch from the Secretary of State with reference to section 7 (1) (c) of the Workmen's Compensation Act (1906), it is necessary to make any and what arrangements for taking down depositions of masters, seamen, etc., at the ports in the Native States of Travancore and Cochin. The Resident in Travancore and Cochin has expressed the opinion that some arrangement for the purpose is desirable. The point for consideration therefore is who should be authorized to take down the depositions at these ports. Under section 7 (1) (c) of the Workmen's Compensation Act " when an injured master, seaman or apprentice is discharged or left behind in a British possession or in a Foreign country, depositions respecting the circumstances and nature of the injury may be taken by any Judge or Magistrate in the British possession and by any British Consular officer in the Foreign country, and if so taken shall be transmitted by the person by whom they are taken to the Board of Trade ; and such depositions or certified copies thereof shall in any proceedings for enforcing the claim be admissible in evidence as provided by sections 691 and 695 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, and those sections shall apply accordingly."

2. For purposes of Municipal law a Native State is clearly not a British possession [see definition of British possession in the Interpretation Act, 1889; 52 and 53 Vic., Ch. 63, section 18. cl. (2)]. The fact that the British Indian Government exercises control in some respects over Native States in India will not make them part of His Majesty's dominions or part of British India (see Hemchund Devchund v. Azam Sakarlal Chotmal, 1906 Ap. cases, p. 212, same case reported in I.L.R., 33 Cal., 219).

The expression "Foreign country" in the section means any country not included in the United Kingdom or in the British possession, or to adopt the language of section 16 of the Foreign Jurisdiction Act of 1890 (53 and 54 Vic., Ch. 37) any country or place out of His Majesty's dominions. A Native State must therefore be regarded as a "Foreign country" within the meaning of s. 7 (1) (c) of the Workmen's Compensation Act and a deposition can therefore be taken only by the official named in the Statute, viz., a "British Consular officer". The fact that there has been no such officer in a Native State cannot affect the construction of the Act. The reference to sections 691 and 695 of the Merchant Shipping Act is merely for the purpose of regulating the manner in which the depositions are to be admissible in evidence and not for the purpose of regulating the manner in which the depositions are to be taken. The fact that sections 691 and 695 are made applicable to the use of depositions under section 7 (1) (c) of the Workmen's Compensation Act cannot attract the provisions of section 737 also. Section 737 is clearly confined only to proceedings under the Merchant Shipping Act and the words "any legal proceeding" occurring in section 691 must be held to be limited to proceedings under the Merchant Shipping Act.

The only arrangement which can be possibly made is to appoint Consular officers at the ports in question Under the Indian (Foreign Jurisdiction) Order in Council, 1902, it would be competent to the Governor-General in Council to make such appointments.

From the Political Agent, Banganapalle, dated 29th January 1908, Dis. No. 35-Pol.

The figures showing the revenue of Native States given in the returns of military forces submitted by the Resident in Travancore and Cochin and the Political Agents differ in some cases rather widely from the figures shown in the administration reports. The returns of military forces give figures for the previous calendar year and this will to some extent account for the difference, but it is not easy, even by taking this fact into consideration, to reconcile the differences shown in the revenue of Pudukkóttai and Banganapalle appearing in the returns and administration reports.

V.S.M.—6-2-08.

For Pudukkóttai please work out average of past five years, for Banganapalle of past two.

A. GALLETTI—7-2-08.

The Revenue of Pudukkóttai for the last five years is—

	RS.
1902–1903	11,25,877
1903–1904	11,28,174
1904–1905	11,23,323
1905–1906	8,90,955
1906–1907	15,49,317
	58,17,646
Average ..	11,63,529

The revenue of Banganapalle for last two years is—

1905–1906	2,82,364
1906–1907	2,66,972
	5,49,336
Average ..	2,74,668

H.W.—7-2-08.

In the case of Banganapalle the Political Agent has taken into account the debt heads and the opening balance in calculating the gross revenues. Omitting these, the actual revenue of the State for 1906–1907 was only Rs. 2,66,972. The return is for the year 1907 and the Political officers' figures may be taken as generally correct. But when there is so much difference between the figures as given by them and those shown in the latest reports, the latter may be adopted. In all cases the revenue may be shown in lakhs and thousands, hundreds being omitted.

See page 8 of Banganapalle report for 1906–1907.

Pudukkóttai: take five years' average as there have been great variations. Banganapalle: latest figure will do.

I have the honour to submit herewith for the orders of Government a copy of a letter, dated 7th January 1908, received from the Diwan of Pudukkóttai reporting the gift of a walking stick and a silk umbrella made to him by His Highness the Raja and requesting orders as to whether he may accept them. I see no objection to acceptation.

Dated—the 7th January 1908.

As soon as His Highness arrived in Pudukkóttai on the 2nd instant, he gave me as a present a walking stick and a silk umbrella which he had brought with him from England; both of them have a gold band and have a gold pencil holder inserted in the handle. On the gold band the letters "S.V.R.D." are engraved.

I do not know the exact value of these but I understand that they are worth about £10.

As the gift does not seem to be one of trifling value I request that you will be good enough to report the matter to Government and ascertain their views as to what I should do with them.

Order—No. 86, Political, dated 21st February 1908.

M.R.Ry. Diwan Bahadur S. Venkataramadas Nayudu, Diwan of Pudukkóttai, will be permitted to retain the walking stick and umbrella presented to him by His Highness the Raja of Pudukkóttai.

The question for orders is whether Diwan Bahadur Venkata Rama Das Nayudu, Diwan of Pudukkóttai, may be allowed to retain a walking stick and a silk umbrella valued at about £10 presented to him by the Raja of Pudukkóttai.

2. In connection with the question of permitting M.R.Ry. N. Pattabhirama Rao to retain a dress, a turban, a pair of gold bangles and a gold necklace of the value of Rs. 200 altogether which were presented to him on his appointment as Diwan by the Raja of Cochin, the Government of India said that the Local Government might at their discretion authorize the retention of similar gifts of little value when offered on fixed occasions and in accordance with established custom, by any British Indian Officer who might be appointed Diwan of a Native State in this Presidency.

Para. 2 of Foreign department letter 3135-I.A., 6th July 1903 at page 3 of G.O., 335, Political, 20th July 1903.

3. In 1904, M.R.Ry. N. Pattabhirama Rao, Diwan of Cochin, was permitted on the strength of the above order to retain—

G.O., 15, Political, 6th January 1904.

(1) a shawl presented to him by the High Priest of Brahmans in Southern India on the occasion of the visit of the Raja of Cochin to Kumbakónam; and

G.O., 391, Political, 22nd July 1904.

(2) an emerald ring, a sovereign and a five franc piece presented to his wife by her friends on the occasion of his sons Namakaranam ceremony.

4. The presentation now made cannot apparently be considered as made on any "fixed occasion" but it may be "in accordance with established custom." If this view is correct then the sanction of the Government of India is not necessary for the retention of the presents in question.

See rule 2 of the Government Servants' Conduct Rules, 1904.

V.S.M.—28-1-08.

The rules immediately applicable seem to be the perquisite rules which please put up.

A. GALLETTI—28-1-08.

Please see G.O., No. 30, Political, dated 14th January 1908, regarding the emoluments of officers lent to Native States. An occasional present does not seem to be contemplated by the rules promulgated in that order.

Perhaps the case may be regarded as coming under "established custom."

V.S.M.—31-1-08.

Chief Secretary—

A reference to India seems to be required by the rules*, but please see the disposal in G.O., No. 391, Political. 22nd July 1904, and especially Sir J. Thomson's note of 29th June 1904. India's rule is very widely expressed. It is derived from statutes which applied primarily to Europeans and makes no exception for the "common customs of humanity." It is, it is submitted, the most natural thing in the world for the Raja on returning from a long absence in Europe to bring back with him little presents for his minister and others at Pudukkóttai and the most suspicious person would not see corruption in this particular transaction. It would seem rather absurd to go up to India.

Abstract.—Addressing the Government of India on the subject of the draft Pudukkóttai Transportation Regulation and enquiring of that Government whether they see any objection to the Regulation being passed into law.

II

Letter—from H. Barnes, Esq., Assistant Secretary to the Government of India in the Foreign Department.
To—the Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras.
Dated—Fort William, the 28th January 1908.
No.—431-I.A.

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 614, dated the 18th December 1907, regarding a proposal of the Pudukkóttai Darbar to issue a Transportation Regulation for the State.

2. With reference to the possibility of fundamental changes being introduced, in the near future, as regards the system of penal administration in the Andamans, you enquire whether there is any objection to the draft Regulation being passed into law.

3. In reply I am to say that in view of the fact that the proposed Regulation can at any time be rescinded and that it is not possible at present to forecast the form the proposals about the Andamans will ultimately take, the Government of India have no objection to the Regulation being issued by the Pudukkóttai Darbar. It must, however, be clearly understood that the Government of India can give no undertaking that the existing system at the Andamans will be maintained.

Order—No. 87, Political, dated 21st February 1908.

With reference to the correspondence ending with G.O., No. 613, Political, dated the 18th December 1907, the Political Agent, Pudukkóttai, will be informed that the Government have no objection to the Transportation Regulation being issued by the Pudukkóttai Darbar.

2. The Government observe that the passing of the Regulation will entail the transfer to the Andamans or other British penal settlements of life convicts now in the Pudukkóttai Central Jail and in future of all prisoners sentenced to transportation for life by the Chief Court of Pudukkóttai. But it must be clearly understood that no undertaking can be given that the existing system at the Andamans will be maintained.

The Government of India were requested in Letter No. 614, Political, dated 18th December 1907, to inform this Government whether, in view of the fact that the questien of abolishing the penal settlement of Port Blair or, in the alternative, of introducing fundamental changes in the existing system of penal administration in the Andamans was under the consideration of the Government of India, they saw any objection to the draft Transportation Regulation proposed by the Pudukkóttai Darbar being passed into law.
