At the commencement of it the Pamicaal? made a sacrifice to the evil one by burying a man alive and pouring the blood of 150 fowls over the spot to prevent the Company from being successful. Noteworthy during this expedition was the taking of Madilagam Carro, which took a day. The white flag was put up after a hard struggle, but to the question as to what was their desire, answer was given that they preferred to die on the spot. Firing being resumed the flag was hoisted a second time and the enemy allowed to leave the place with their arms according to their request. The Admiral placed himself in the gateway of the inner fortifications to see them pass out, when a shot was heard followed by the explosion of a gunpowder magazine while the Nairs made an attempt to fall on the troops of the Company. He is to find out accurately the state of the war between the Canarese General Regenade and the Moorish Lady Regent Ady Rajah, considering that the former had already brought Calastry under the sway of the Canarese King and wished to pass through the range of the Company's cannons to take, if possible, her Basar. "	18th Sept.	Do. ..	Letters from Cannanore. The Callastrian Prince Regent Cherreckel was busy building a fortress on Mount Carla. The servants objected, as the bullets might fall in or near their fort or in the Bay. He replied that it was all owing to the Canarese. Resolved to protest against the Prince as well as against the Canarese leader Regenade.
"	8th Dec.	Do. ..	Letters from Cannanore. The Canarese, in spite of the protests, continued building the fortress and began shooting, so that the servants were obliged to return the compliment, which resulted in a Canarese Captain losing one leg and a woman and baby being shot dead. Their fort was rather too high for the Company's bullets. Regenade intended throwing up fortifications in the plain near the fort. Resolved to order the servants to fire no more at the fortress. Regenade begged for two deputies to confer with about the affairs of Barssalore. The servants were ordered to act in this matter as seemed prudent. A protest was to be made against Regenade's building fortifications near the fort. If not heeded, they were to fire at it till they deserted the place.
"			The conditions of the contract for the ratification of peace in Mangatty were not carried out by the Second Prince, who would not give up the cannons, nor take the oath. Forces were sent thither, and the Prince was to be sent for to carry out the articles of the contract. If he should offer armed resistance, he was to be repulsed by arms.

Travancore says that the King of Cayencoolam was slain through his own imprudence, and that if Signatty should not wish to come to terms, he would vigorously continue the war.

288	1740.	13th Jan.	Cochin ..	The rumour that the French intended settling themselves near Mahé was proved true by their landing at that place cannons and other materials necessary for fortifications. Their plan seemed to be to occupy the country of Punatur. Resolved to send the Vessel Polanen with some European troops thither in order to come to the same understanding with the French as there existed with the English nation concerning besieged towns and places.	Resolutions, 1740.

No.	Date.	Dated from	Nature of Document.	Reference.
1740.	14th Jan.	Cochin ..	Resolved to add two more vessels to the Polanen to depart for the coast of Punatur to prevent the French landing there, even by force, if needed. Reported that Punatur Nambeddy visited the French at Mahé. Resolved to send messengers to the Zamorin to induce him to punish his vassal Punatur, and to inform him of the intention of the Dutch to resist the plans of the French. The Zamorin promises, with the help of the Company, to punish Punatur.
„	19th „	Do. ..	Letter from N. Diroix, Commandant of the French Company at Mahé. He has no intentions against the Dutch Company and the general customs; yet he does not understand what evil may result from their proceedings. Reply from J. V. Stein van Gollennesse. The Company is in war with the King of Travancore and Punatur Nambeddy; consequently the coast is blockaded by the Company's vessels and every other nation prevented from landing according to the usages of war in Europe. Therefore the Company's friends and allies were informed not to send vessels to such places.
„	21st „	Do. ..	Information received that the French, being frustrated in the Punatur affair, are trying to settle themselves unexpectedly at Tengapatnam, the King of Travancore having held out great promises to them. The vessels received instructions.
„	30th „	Do. ..	Information received that the French had, by land, paid a visit to the Zamorin. Protest sent to the Zamorin. Considering that the number of troops was not strong enough to resist both the French and the people of Punatur, it was resolved to ask the King of Cochin for assistance and to ask the same from other Princes and allies. Considering that the Zamorin might, notwithstanding the Company's protest, allow the French to enter Punatur by land, instructions were sent to the vessels to plant the Dutch flag on the shore under the protection of the guns. Letter from Quilon. The combined forces of the Dutch and of Signatty devastated the country from Iroor to the river of Attinga, causing great loss to the enemy.
„	31st „	Do. ..	The French having been refused an audience by the Zamorin, asked an interview with the Dutch servants, which was accorded. Orders issued to Lieutenant Berning not to be aggressive if the French should show themselves in the land of Punatur; but, if they do not leave the place, to molest Punatur in such a manner that the French may become aggressive and then to drive them out of the country by force of arms. Order given to the Commandants of the vessels to start the hostilities against Punatur by taking all vessels going to and coming from Punatur. Ola from the Zamorin. He had written to his Rajadhuders to bring troops. Punatur, meanwhile, had sent some agents to Mahé who, accompanied by a French Captain and some soldiers, arrived at Ponany. All these things were done without his (the Zamorin's) knowledge, wherefore he had resolved to take action against Punatur. Letter from the French at Mahé. Finding that the Company were at war with Travancore, they had stopped to carry on operations in that direction; but, as Punatur had been threatened with war if he should grant the establishment promised by him to the French (which, they maintained, was not in accordance with the treaties), they protested.

1740.	4th Feb.	Cochin ..	Letter from the French Commandant at Mahé. He complains about a French vessel having been taken by a Dutch vessel from under the guns of the English at Anjengo. He demands that restitution be made and the Commander of the Dutch vessel punished. Reply to the Commandant of Mahé. The vessel was taken because it was stated in her pass that she was bound for Colletya situated in the enemy's country, and because she contained a cargo of shields, victuals and other necessities. However, explanation would be waited for.
„	10th „	Do. ..	Letter from the Chief De Jong at Cannanore. The French at Mahé wished to take revenge by taking one of the Dutch vessels. They were leaving Punatur to himself till they should obtain vessels and soldiers from Pondicherry. He thinks that the Zamorin is inwardly in favour of the French, who are supposed to have promised him their protection. It is supposed that the French do not answer speedily, because they are at a loss to find a plausible reason. Nevertheless, it is proposed and resolved to send their vessel back, as it is too trifling a matter for breaking the friendship of the two nations. Letter from the Governor of Cochin to Fr. Dirois, Commandant of Mahé. Although the behaviour of the French is unjustifiable, the vessel is for the sake of friendship returned.

No.	Date.	Dated from	Nature of Document.	Reference.
1740.	15th Feb.	Cochin ..	Secret letter from the Chief of Cannanore. The French have received ammunition. It is said that they intend going to Punatur through the Zamorin's territory. It is, moreover, rumoured that Travancore will receive assistance from a certain Prince and will conclude a treaty with the Zamorin against the Dutch Company ; that either the first or second Prince of Palyetta is plotting against the Company, the King of Paroor being involved in the scheme ; that the French intend taking possession of a piece of land between Cranganore and Chetwa. He has been told that the French at Mahé had received information from Pondicherry that the Emperor, Spain and France, would, about this time, have declared war against Holland and England.
„	25th „	Do. ..	Letters from Quilon. The Dutch forces, owing to the flight of the Cayencoolam Nairs, had to retreat from Attinga to Iroor. The Rajah of Signatty is desperate, his troops having fled. Resolved to make him levy at once 10,000 Nairs, else the Company would not assist him. The English had assisted the enemy with 150 soldiers, 500 guns and 6 barrels of powder. Their soldiers in the evening returned to Anjengo. Resolved to obtain more certain particulars about the last point.
„	17th Mar.	Do. ..	Letter from Quilon. The French have effected a landing in Travancore.
„	24th „	Do. ..	Letter from Quilon. Travancore is collecting forces in Attinga.
„	13th June	Do. ..	Letter from the Zamorin. He complains that the King of Cochin has sent people to the country of Chittur Nambury, taking possession of the lands and arresting the slaves and subjects of that country and committing other hostilities. He begs the Company to send people thither to put a stop to the arrests and cause the restitution of the confiscated property. A resolution is passed to meet his wishes.
„	15th „	Do. ..	Letter from the second interpreter B. Den Brouwer and ola from the Zamorin. Punatur has, owing to the preparations for punishing him, begged to be again received in the friendship of the Company under certain conditions. These were not accepted ; but it was resolved to suspend matters till the arrival of an Admiral or General from Batavia when the contract with Punatur would be made.
„	10th Aug.	Do. ..	The parishioners of the Church at Angicaymal, subject to the Company and consisting of topasses, lascars and the so-called St. Thomas Christians (who long ago had joined the Catholic Church),

No.	Date.		Dated from	Nature of Document.	Reference.
	1740.	27th Oct.	Cochin ..	had deposed the former Vicar and, on the instigation of the King of Cochin, had struck the present one and kept him out of the church. Moreover they had the services performed in it by a hired priest, saying that it belonged to the St. Thomas Christians. They consequently maintained the church did not belong to the Company's jurisdiction, and would not obey the Captain of the Topasses, S. Mendes, nor the interpreter, B. Den Brouwer, who had been sent to investigate the affair and to ask the Mordons an account of the church moneys. This had not been done for the past eleven years.—Order is given that no services be held in that church by the so-called Mapulais, nor people buried in it till they obey the Company.
	„	6th Dec.	Do. ..	The French at Mahé have fired at the Dutch vessels passing, though they had their flag on the mast and were provided with passes. A protest is sent to Mahé.
	„	15th „	Do. ..	The Rajadhuders of Martenour and Carinbalicour arrived to speak about the necessity of appointing a King over those countries. The two proposed by Cochin were not acceptable to the Rajah of Cayencoolam, while those proposed by him did not please them because of their being brought up in Cayencoolam. Besides, they wished to have one from among the Nairs. Resolved to wait till the war should be brought to a close and, meanwhile, to have the countries looked after by the Company and Signatty. They agreed to this arrangement.
289	„	..	Repolin ..	Letter from Payencherry Nair. Punatur Nambeddy is inclined to come to Cochin to make up with the Company. He was answered that the differences should first be cleared before the meeting should take place. Captain S. Mendes is written to give him to understand that he has first to sign the contract as it is.	Diary, 1740.

This evil spirit did vent his rage against the Zamorin on account of some vexation caused by the Company. The Zamorin wishing to propitiate the demon forced the Christians to touch the pagoda at Padricotta, and spent 7,000 old fanams to perform ceremonies in it. This bundle contains also a fragment of two letters belonging to a correspondence of 1740 between Cochin and Mahé and Anjengo about some disagreement between the Companies. There is a correspondence (fragment) between the Chief of Anjengo, Charles Whitehill and Julius Valentyn Stein van Gollenesse, the latter refuting certain charges made by the English Chief. Missive from the Governor-General to the Government of Cochin approving of the restrictions placed on the Roman Catholic Clergy relative to their preaching against the placards, their baptizing of heathen subjects of the Malabar Princes, their clandestinely marrying of the Company's servants and topasses. Considering, moreover, that they pray in their churches for the Pope, the supposed visible head of the church, and for the King of Portugal, the Patron of the churches in India, the proposal of the Commandeur is approved of to make them pray also for the States General, the Superiors of the Octroyed East India Company, the Governor-General and Council and for the Commandeur and Council of Cochin. 	1742.	28th Aug.	Amsterdam.	Extract from General Home missive concerning Malabar. A Protestant minister should be provided, or one should occasionally come on a visit from Colombo in order to prevent the children of Company's servants being baptized by Catholic priests. The baptizing by Catholic priests of children of Government servants, at least of such as belong to the Government, should be interdicted. If people brought up in the Protestant orphanage become Catholics, they should be made to make restitution. Extract from General Home missive concerning Coromandel. A memorial had been sent by the Comptroller-General of France containing a complaint about the obstruction caused to the French trade by the servants of the Dutch Company in the kingdoms of Travancore and Tanjore. Explanations are requested from servants. Of the six French men-of-war that had left Europe in the year 1740, three had arrived at Pondicherry, landing 2,000 soldiers, who were going to take possession of the Pamby gold mines under pretext that they were to be given as a dowry to a French Prince who had married a Spanish Princess. The servants are instructed to render the efforts of the French unprofitable, since they cannot in this instance resort to armed force.

They are blamed for having placed in charge of the last yearly Embassy to Candy a man unfit for the office. They should always choose a European who could command the respect of the Candian Court.

Negapatam Govinda Row Chetke is invested with the Government of Tanjore by the Mahrattas and, being dissatisfied with the peace that was concluded between the Company and Tanjore the year previous, marches to Naoor and surrounding villages, where he commits hostilities. The Lieutenant Geelvink marched up to Naoor and dislodged the enemy, which led to the re-settlement of affairs between the Company and Tanjore. It is also related how Govinda Row plundered Carical and surrounding villages. Anawardi Khan is appointed Nawab of the Lower Carnatic country by Nizamulmulk. The Nizam comes to an agreement with the Mahrattas to resist the forces of the Mughal. Before this a portion of their army had arrived near Masulipatam. It was then resolved to put the town in a state of defence, which became unnecessary when the rumour was spread that the Bengal Nawab Alliwardi Khan had caused their two Generals Alikhan Carroa and Baska Row to be massacred and routed the Mahratta forces, driving them out from the Bengal dominions. 	1741.	6th Dec.	Amsterdam	Extract from Home Resolutions concerning report sent Home relative to the complaints made by the Comptroller-General of France about the obstructions the Dutch Company had caused to the French trade in Tanjore and Travancore. The report had been sent to the States General, and the action of the servants in the said countries approved of. The report runs as follows:—The most friendly relations had ever existed between the Dutch and French Companies in India. There was an old treaty between the Company and the Kings of Travancore, which had been several times confirmed by them, preventing any foreign nations from settling or trading in that country. Now the present King of Travancore having violated the former treaties in many respects, the Company had been obliged to take up arms against him. A notice of this had been sent to the French at Mahé and Pondicherry that they might keep neutral; but they, not heeding it, had sent several vessels with ammunition and victuals to the enemy; some had been taken by the Dutch vessels, but four returned to the French in order to preserve the old friendship. With Tanjore, too, there existed treaties, several times and, even of late, confirmed, by which Carical, among other places, had been ceded to the Company and by which the Tanjore Rulers had put themselves under the obligation not to allow foreign European nations to trade in their country, nor to give them a place for it. Carical had been left by the Company in order to make Negapatam the principal trading station without, however, giving up their rights concerning Carical and the silver trade in that country. With these rights the French had tampered. They might allege as an extenuating circumstance that they were in possession of a place called Cabulpatnam (Trimulawaz) near Carical, where they had established themselves in 1688; but even this was an unjust usurpation considering that Tanjore's treaties with the Dutch were much older.

Ola to Travancore by way of protest. He should not extend his line of fortifications closer to those of Signatty, nor receive the deserters from the Company; he should, besides, conduct himself after the decision of the Company concerning Cuttemagalam. „	25th July	Do. ..	Letter from Cannanore. Ady Rajah has received a letter from Angria, who, at his request, will, in the course of the next good monsoon, arrive with a formidable force to assist him against his enemies. Resolved to tax Ady Rajah on this affair per ola. Letter from the supposed Bishop of Cochin, Dom Clemente Joseph Collaço Leitao, dated Anjengo. He had come, being against his will and thoughts, invested with the episcopal dignity by the King of Portugal. He begged to be excused for not having written as soon as he had set foot on this shore. At Goa he had received from Portugal via Amsterdam a packet of letters, among which the annexed writ from the Secretary of State Pedro de Motte Silva, informing him that his Liege had proposed him to Rome as Bishop of Cochin. The bulls too were included. He did not think the title "Bishop of Cochin" would in any way derogate from the power and privileges of the Company at Cochin. He would not mix in any political questions. Considerations.— Inasmuch as the Jesuitic tricks of the said Bishop were evident, and as there was a general order of old not to allow those rascals in that place, since they could not possibly be tolerated, and reflecting, moreover, that Verapoly and Puttenchery were the only residences of Bishops according to a missive letter from Hertenberg and Van Gollennesse to Batavia, dated 16th May 1741, it was concluded not to answer the letter of the Bishop, yet at the same time to inform the Netherlands and Batavia of it.

1747.	14th Oct.	Cochin ..	Letters from Quilon. Travancore had taken the line of Signatty : some of his Nairs had thereupon come to the shore of Signatty under the guns of the fortress to take away the cannon of the Saramb. The interpreter was sent with an oral protest to Krishna Annavy. Ola from the Rajadhuder and Dallawa of Travancore, Krishna Annavy, to Quilon. He had given orders to his people to keep away from the Dutch limits, but he would send Mocquavers to take away two or three cannons from the shore near the Saramb. The servant answered that they expected further orders about this affair. Ola from the people of Signatty. Travancore had summoned them to subject themselves to him, which they had positively refused. They ask the protection of the Company.

Relating how the French sent Bajah Sahib (who resided at Pondicherry since the surrender of Trichinopoly to the Mah- rattas in 1740) to the assistance of Chanda Sahib, his father; how they took Myla- pore, of which Dupleix put in charge his so-called nephew Fre Antony De Purificação, who was afterwards made a prisoner by the English. Mylapore with its surrounding villages and Melly Nellore had been given to the French by Chanda Sahib. This General conquered the army of Anawardi Khan near Ambur, in which battle the latter fell. Chanda Sahib then moved to Arcot, whence to Tanjore which he besieged, but left being unsuccessful and content- ing himself with a sum of 75 lakhs of rupees. Meanwhile the Diwan of the late Nawab Anawardi Khan escaped and reported matters to Nasar Jung, who made preparations to stop the pro- gress of Chanda Sahib. The latter being informed of Nasar's movements again besieged Tanjore and tried three times to take it by storm, but without success. Hereupon he retreated but found the Connaways, which he had to pass, occu- pied. Hence, wishing to go to Pondi- cherry by Kumbakonam, he sent in ad- vance 4,000 horse, who, meeting a portion of Nasar's army, were completely routed. Considering the cowardly conduct of the Native Rulers, who are unwilling to combine against him, the Company should keep neutral, at the same time fortifying themselves to such an extent as to be able to resist him if necessary. Extract from Home missive relative to Bengal in which the servants' treaty with the French concerning the giving up of deserters is approved of; only, it should also be made with the English and extended to officers and political servants, after the model of the convention made at Coromandel in 1739. Extract from Home missive relative to Coromandel, approving of the measures to be taken by the servants of Negapatam in case the French outrages against the Company. The servants' proposal of leaving Masulipatam after the French evacuating the place is disapproved of; it should only cease to be a principal station.

			Extract from Home missive relative to Ceylon. Upon the information that the inhabitants in the Negombo and Calitura districts have objected to pay the school fines on the ground of their being Roman Catholics, it is deemed advisable to act with moderation. The best means of drawing them away from their religion are to instruct them in their own language, to prevent the invasion of priests, their exercises and ceremonies, which is in accordance with former placards. For the 17th article of the treaty of 23rd May 1638 with Raja Sing of Candy expressly stipulated the non-admittance into his territory of papists, monks or other clerical persons; whilst, at the capitulation of Colombo in 1656, all Roman priests had to leave with their images and ornaments. It is therefore considered necessary to make a search after the priests and to send them to Batavia, that the common people may be easily gained for the Protestant religion. Extract from Home missive relative to Surat blaming the servants for joining the English in an expedition against the Armada of Pandit considering that the English are doing their utmost to ruin Surat.

	"	12th Mar.	Do.	Resolution to send the Kleine Willem with provisions and artillery to Chetwa at the request of the Company's servants of that place. Renewal of the resolu- tion of the 24th January ordering the Captain of the Kleine Willem to pursue all the vessels of the Zamorin as far as Tengapatnam and to bring them up as prizes to Cochin. The Resident of Ten- gapatnam receives intelligence that two native vessels, provided with Portuguese passes, and belonging to the Zamorin, have taken in cloths at Colletya. The Ship-Captain J. Sas pursues and over- takes them, but, dividing his Conganese soldiers among the Almadias, leaving the arms in them and ordering the crews to sail along the coast to Quilon, fails to bring them to Cochin himself. For a Portuguese frigate meets them about Anjengo and brings them to Cochin. The Captain of the frigate places men on the vessels and sends a Lieutenant on shore to request that Military men be sent to the Almadias. The Commandeur thinks it unnecessary, as the vessels can be sent up the river. The Lieutenant replies that the vessels have Portuguese passes and sail under the Portuguese flag; wherefore they cannot be returned. Letter from Chetwa informing that the fortress Inamaka, containing 24 cannons, was, on the 25th March, given up by the people of Cochin to the Zamorin without firing one shot, and that the post Pulicara was fortified with eight cannons from Inamaka; the Zamorin was preparing to attack Chetwa, and to march to Pulicara with between 4 and 8,000 men. He had given orders to build a small fortress on an island, about six miles south of Chetwa, to prevent vessels sailing in or out. Servants ask reinforcements to keep the navigation free. The Commandeur sends two servants, 47 natives and a few arms by the Johanna Chatharina . Letters from Cranganore stating that 3,000 men of the Zamorin had taken possession of the Syrian church at Paroor to prevent the incursion of Travancore. The King of Paroor subjects himself to the Zamorin.
„	6th May	Do. ..	Letter from Chetwa relating that the Zamorin was at Trichur with 8,000 men: some of them showed themselves on the limits of Chetwa. One lascar was wounded. A small detachment was sent and the Nairs dispersed. The servants are exhorted to be on their guard.
„	23rd Aug.	Do. ..	The servants at Chetwa have for some time been unable to write owing to the roads being unsafe. A party of the Zamorin's men burnt a village: the inhabitants fled. At Chetwa they had to take fixed rations owing to the scarcity of victuals.

To prevent this it is proposed to let an armed boat cruise about that place. Letter from the Chief Weijerman at Cannanore informing that the Mahratta Marine forces were on the point of coming down from the north to war against the Dutch nation. He adds that they are real tools of the English and of Ady Rajah. They took an important fort on the limits of Canara. He therefore begs for reinforcements, which cannot be sent. Peace is concluded.
„	27th June	Do. ..	The Rajadhuders of the Zamorin extort from the Christians of Coorty contributions which they had not to pay before. The Christian Uny gives him the means to execute his plans. This man was sent to Cochin, where he explained himself by saying that he had done so to avert more vexation and wantonness. The Travancore servants are requested to find out if any injustice was practised in this instance. The Zamorin's death on the 7th May. His successor wrote that he wished to carry out the contracts with the Company.
„	18th July	Do. ..	The brother of the Prince Cartamana caused a Nair, who was a subject of the Company, to be killed for an arrogant answer, saying there were more such men he wished to punish in the conquest. Complaints about this Prince by the King of Iroor. Resolved to confiscate all the houses and lands of the younger Prince in favour of the Company. Order is sent to the servants of Paponnetty empowering them to shoot any Nair of Murianatty Nambiar (whom the Princes of Cartamana make use of) if caught in a criminal act. Notification of these things to be given to Murianatty Nambiar. Concerning the contributions of the Christians of Coorty, who had complained of them, answer was received from the Travancore servants that it was the custom for a new sovereign to levy them; only these contributions were too heavy for the poor people and they (servants) had written an ola to the Zamorin's Minister, Talchenore, to put a stop to those molestations. The servants of Chetwa and Cranganore give information that the inhabitants of Cochin have captured Trichur; that the men of the Zamorin have retreated and that the Nairs of the Zamorin are collecting at Inamaka. Received a letter from the Resident of Tengapatnam stating the death of the King of Travancore on the 7th instant.

Instructions are given to the Company's servants to investigate this case still more accurately.
	,,	27th Oct.	Do. .. The servants at Paponnetty are ordered to throw more light on the case of the murdered Nair. Proposal of the servants of Paponnetty to levy tithes on the private landed property in the conquest for the Company. This proposal is accepted. Letters from Paponnetty stating that 100 Nairs of the Zamorin had entered the conquest and were committing many outrages. Complaints were sent to the Zamorin. Letter from Colombo stating that the servants of Coromandel had asked for 400 European soldiers and 100 artillerists; that they were not able to deprive themselves of the necessary forces, but that they (the servants of Cochin) might send the forces they had received from Batavia for the war with the Zamorin. Resolved not to do so since, though peace had been concluded with him, the presence of troops had not ceased to be necessary.

Letters from Paponnetty stating that the introduction of tithes, though at first willingly received, is now viewed with discontent, the people having been put up to oppose it by the subjects of Murianatty and Cranganore. They give reasons not to be made to pay the tithes at least for that year. Answer was sent to enforce the tithes since the grievances were not founded, to send a list of the ring-leaders and to be strict in gathering tithes.	Resolutions, 1759, 1760.
	"	18th "	Do. ..	Letter from Paponnetty: the harvest was very scanty, hence the request to be free from tithes for that year. The request is not accorded, but the servants are not to be strict and, instead of a tithe, they may levy the half or one-third of it, or even less. Great tact is to be used. They are also to find out what are the customs and usages in vogue if Princes or Kings possess lands situated in the jurisdiction of a foreign power.
	"	6th Feb ..	Do. ..	Letter from Cannanore: the English try to prevent the export of pepper which is being provided at Cadatenadu by the Prince-Regent of Calastray. 			Ady Rajah, who is not fulfilling the contract regarding pepper and ill-treats the strangers. He (Weijerman) wishes to be authorized to prevent ingress and egress of the bay or to use other means to bring him to his senses. This Ady Rajah, continues the letter, had also deprived a Mughal of all his merchandise and costly property and put him in chains. One of his vessels, that was bound for Jiddah, had been seized. The Ruler of Jiddah had sent a letter about these affairs to the Commandeur and one to Ady Rajah. The letter to Ady Rajah contains an exhortation to make restitution to the Mughal and to release the Sultan of the Maldives whom he is keeping in prison. Resolved to forward the letters to Batavia and to direct an ola to Ady Rajah to reprimand him and to ask for restitution. If he did not behave better he would forfeit the friendship of the Company and might be compelled by other means. Resolved also to send a letter to the Ruler of Jiddah to inform him of all the proceedings. The King of Cranganore complains of the tithes being levied in the conquest. The Commandeur replies that no injustice is done to the inhabitants although the Company has never before made use of the right of levying taxes. He is advised to put a stop to his unreasonable complaints.
1759.	11th April	Cochin ..	The vessel Rosenburg arrives with the information that a small boat laden with pepper was taken away by the English from Bangara to Tellicherry. The protest of the chief Weijerman was fruitless. Resolved to address the Government of Bombay.
„	31st July	Do. ..	The servants of Cannanore write that Ady Rajah has had several oral communications with the English Interpreter Pedro Rodrigues, after which he has begun to make preparations of war. A scribe and a sergeant were sent to ask him the reason of these proceedings. He answered that Calastry intended to take possession of the Canarese Fort Dekola. This was represented to the Ruler of Calastry, who said he had consented to it. Ady Rajah, with 1,000 men and 12 vessels, rowed up to the north which the servants were not able to prevent, but of which they secretly informed the Court of Bedrur. The Moors did not take the fort but plundered the Canarese country. The conduct of Ady Rajah was becoming worse and worse, wherefore orders were given to the servants at Cannanore to be on their guard, the more so, as Ady Rajah was holding conferences with the English. Resolution to withdraw from Ady Rajah the protection of

The elder brother, however, was to manage all affairs owing to the youthfulness of the successor. The English and the French on that occasion appeared at his court with great presents. The Dutch did likewise. The treaty of commerce was confirmed. The King of Travancore celebrates the funeral rites of his uncle. The Commandeur sends no one to pay the usual compliments owing to the monsoon. The English make their appearance in great state. Resolved to compliment him by the servants if he comes in the vicinity of Quilon. The Commandeur mentions that illegal power is exercised by Travancore over the Mocquavers in the Company's district at Quilon. The King was requested not to molest further those people, which was promised; but the promise was not kept. Proposal of the Chief De Lij to cede those domains to Travancore which was not deemed practical. Letter from the Bombay Government concerning the appropriated vessel. The reason for taking the boat with pepper to Tellicherry was this, because it had no passes showing that it belonged to the Company. The restitution of the boat was ordered. The military men, who had entered the English service, would, if pardoned, be sent back. Copy of letter sent to Cannanore with orders to bring back the vessel and the military men. The servants of Paponnetty being again asked how the inhabitants liked the introduction of tithes, gave an answer, from which it was evident that the inhabitants would not pay the tithes except they were compelled. In future the tithes would be collected by specially appointed Collectors supported by a military detachment. The request of the King of Cranganore to be placed on the same footing as the family of Payencherry in regard to the payment of taxes is declined, for the favourable conditions of that family were owing to their having ceded their lands to the Company of their own free will.
1760.	2nd Jan.	Do. ..	Letters from Europe stated that certain difficulties between the Dutch and English Governments had not been solved as yet and that a declaration of war might every moment be expected. Resolved to request the Ministers at Ceylon to send about 1,000 lb. gunpowder per ordinary vessel. Letter from Cannanore informing that a vessel with 250 warriors from the north had arrived for Ady Rajah. Every day vessels under different flags were arriving. They (the servants) had informed the Prince of Calastery of these things; they meanwhile asked for military reinforcements. „	1st April	Do. ..	An Almadia arrives before Quilon with a Danish flag and is brought in by order of the Chief. A Portuguese shows Danish passes. The vessel was bound from Calicut for Colletya. The Portuguese is informed by the Chief of Quilon of the rights of the Company on that coast. He takes a Dutch pass. Letter from Colletya to the Chief De Lij complaining of the proceedings. Letter about the same concern from the Danes at Calicut to the Commandeur. A reply was sent that the Dutch, who had been on that coast for almost a century, had the right to visit all the native vessels that passed. The same line of conduct was followed by the English and the French, who had arrived comparatively recently. The Danes protested that they had to provide themselves with Dutch passes. This would be continued, however, since they were trading at Calicut where the Dutch Company, owing to the treaties with the Native Princes, had the exclusive right of trade.	Resolutions, 1759, 1760.

	1759.	22nd Oct.	Cochin .. The English try to make Calastery leave the side of the Dutch, but to no purpose. The English are displeased. The result is that a raid is made in the country of Calastery by the rebels and Moors of Ady Rajah, who were supplied by the English with guns, powder, lead and money. The Prince, too, is levying forces for the sake of resistance. The Chief in commenting on these facts is of opinion that now is the time to drive away or to annihilate Ady Rajah and his followers. A present is sent to Calastery, who drives the rebels back to the mountains. Another present is sent by the Chief to Calastery. The Chief fears that Ady Rajah will take extraordinary measures and asks for reinforcements. Letters from Cannanore. The Chief is of opinion that their neutral position in the troubles between the old Prince Barkelencur and the Regent of Calastery will be injurious to the interests of the Company, though the old Prince maintains that a change of affairs at Calastery will not alter the relations with the Company. The old Prince is vigorously supported by the English in his attempts to obtain the Government. Their intention is to drive the Regent out of the country. The English planted their flag to the south of the Baliapatnam river about a mile from the Company's fort. The Chief shall emphatically protest against their measures. The Commandeur is of opinion that their neutrality should be continued.

The Commandeur brought to the recollection of the Council that since the Company made the conquest of Paponnetty by the sword of the Zamorin in 1717, there had not been a church for the Catholic population. Now these people in the conquest had to undergo great difficulties, for instance in the case of baptisms and burials for which they had to cross the river, which was not always possible and attended with great expenses. Many families had consequently emigrated. The Commandeur thought it should be granted and the conquest would be populated. Their request was accorded.	Resolutions, 1764.
	„	15th Feb.	Do. .. The Cannanore servants give information that the fleet of the Mahratta pirates plies about Cape Montedelly and Decla. A corporal and 25 soldiers are, owing to these circumstances, placed on the Erfprins .
	„	27th „	Do. .. Letters from Cannanore state that the pirates have taken a ship and a boat belonging to Ady Rajah that were anchored near the Fort Montedelly, after which they have sailed to the south. The Commandeur gives further information that the fleet of the pirates has arrived below the white cliffs of Calicut and taken a few more native vessels. The vessel Erfprins has therefore received an addition of an officer and 24 soldiers, besides an artilleryman and four cannons with orders to be prepared for action. A small vessel is added for greater security. Also the Kleine Willem is equipped for the same purpose.

	1764.	19th Mar.	Cochin . . Further information is given that the Mahratta fleet has taken possession of three Macao vessels and a frigate from Goa. Information is gained that the fleet of the pirates has returned to the north. The servants of Cannanore state that the pirates have returned from the north and allow the English and Portuguese vessels to pass unmolested, and at night anchor close to Cannanore. The natives of Ady Rajah fear a landing by night. They sail past Cannanore under the English flag. They have taken possession of three native vessels, five bomb-ketches and several small mercantile vessels; they have effected a landing on Mutingle, plundering everywhere.

	,,	8th Dec.	Do. . . Letters from Chetwa stating that armed men had made their appearance on the post Pulicarra; those people were subjects of Calastry. They said they intended to bring their Prince away from the Travancore Court. They were told they could not do so without the consent of Cochin, which they did not heed. Resolved to ask the Cannanore servants why they had not given any information concerning this affair and to inform Calastry not to attempt such things again. It was alleged that the interest of the Company in the Malabar coast was entirely based on the amount of pepper they derived from it; that, as the pepper came for the most part in the hands of the English, the Malabar coast might eventually be of no interest at all. The Commandeur replied that he would endeavour to mend matters by using the same means as the English employed. The English have offered a larger sum than the Dutch to the King of Travancore to obtain the coir trade.
	,,	18th ,,	Do. . . Communication from the servants at Quilon that an Almadia had passed without stopping; that afterwards an Almadia arrived without pass at Ayweeka. The vessel was then unloaded (iron and 250 swords were found) and sent to Quilon. Orders were sent to Quilon to restore the vessel with her cargo as soon as reclaimed by the King.

	1784.	18th Nov.	Middelburg. Extract from Home missive concerning Malabar. The Commandeur Angelbeek is praised for his energetic conduct during the war. The death of the Nawab Hyder Ali, a friend of the Company, may probably cause a considerable change on this coast. The intentions of the English to extend their power on this coast should be carefully frustrated by lawful means. It is uncertain whether the successor of Hyder Ali, Tippoo Sultan Bahadur, will dislike the English as much as his predecessor. The English will endeavour to court his favour as they usually do in the case of Native Princes to increase their own power. At the beginning of the war with the English, peace was made with Hyder Ali, but the differences with Chetwa and Paponnetty had been left unsettled. This should now be looked to. It is to be seen whether the English will execute their plan of restoring the Princes, that the Nawab had driven out, in the country of the Zamorin and Calastery. They, considering their enmity with Cochin, may, if combined with the English, cause a great deal of trouble to him. Therefore he should be supported as much as possible; and this the more so, since Travancore had publicly chosen the part of the English.
