I Duncan Campbell, voluntarily make Oath, that I have heard Colonel David Blake acknowledge several times on board the Ship Bute, that he was indebted to his Brother Samuel Blake Esqr a Sum of Money, which to the best of my Recollection I believe he said was a thousand pound Sterling, and a few days before the Ship went into Rio Janeiro, joking with his Brother, he said, Sam, if I have Money of Yours, You have nothing to shew for it, his Brother replied more than Observed to Colonel Blake, I would not trust my father with such a Sum without an Acknowledgement, he Answered, Sam, need not be Uneasy about his Money, for tho I have not given him an Acknowledgement, I have, or will make a Memorandom of it

Ch. Dear Swartz

After all my boasted honesty and my soul sometime persevering therein, I at last most shamefully have suffered my self to be led away by the Devil, his many Emissaries, My own vile and wicked Nature and the constant examples of others I have accepted presents: I have taken from Naigues, Havildars and Jemmidars for their promotion, Oh! these Dubashes these Sircars Officers, they are Devils

Pray my Dear Dear friend as You value the happiness of Souls in a future state, do what you can for me to make My peace with God

Let what I am possessed of at my Death be given to the Sepoys of the 11th Battalion from whom I have taken it. The Orderly Jemmidar knows these people, as does that Villain of a Dubash of mine, the Commandant, and many of the Sircars Officers, I will endeavour to add behind me a more particular Account both of the Names of these People and the Sums taken from them

The first cause of my Apostacy was owing to an information that a Subedar had taken this Money from the Officers Shud make over his Company, and that my not taking it was saving them nothing, Oh! God how ready this Artfull Devil our common Enemy is to watching every Opportunity to bring us to ruin, and once we have made a beginning in Wickedness of this kind we are generally for Ever lost

I almost tremble to even hope for Gods Mercy, yet pray for me Dear friend, who knows what the goodness of God may do, Oh Swartz! I did incessantly pray for Gods Assistance against these things, but Assuredly my Prayers must be Deficient

Make such use of this, My Dear friend as you may judge will best redound to the Glorifying My Sins — Adieu May You be happy in life, and die with quiet mind is the Sincere Wish of the Unhappy
